About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"You betcha. You know, I get why they start you out with an empty room, but it would make things a whole lot easier if they gave you at least some basics to start out. So, what kinda demon are we looking at here?"

"Oh, uh, lust." You feel your face redden slightly, but the man behind the counter lets out a booming laugh.

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling he would be into a canopy bed, I think."

He looks up from the book. "Oh, wait. You mean you've already summoned one?"

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

You nod, then ask, "Why were you sitting on the floor? There's a nice chair right over here."

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give him a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Startled, you turn to see him standing on the ward, the carefully-drawn symbols smudged underneath. Steve is looking up in horror, the color gone from his face.

Belrye holds up his hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." He takes one careful step back, his hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, his voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"That's a huge relief," Steve says, shoulders slumping a bit. "Now, let me unload this bed for you." With remarkable speed, you watch as the bed is quickly assembled, ending with the white satin curtains being hung from the canopy frame.

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With him bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at his tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of his breasts. He lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. He slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure they're safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When they see you, their eyes light up and they rise to their hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

They stand up and walk over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," she replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up her hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." She takes one careful step back, her hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, her voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With her bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at her tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of her breasts. She lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. She slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," he replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too. . . " You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling he would be into a canopy bed, I think."

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so…" He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give him a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens his mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." "Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling they would be into a canopy bed, I think."

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure they're safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When they see you, their eyes light up and they rise to their hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

They stand up and walk over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Absolutely! Though I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. And I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure she's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When she sees you, her eyes light up and she rises to her hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

She stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give her a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a

"I'd like that," she replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

She opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up her hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." She takes one careful step back, her hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, her voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of her breasts. She lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. She slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Absolutely! Though I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. And I think I know just where to get it," she replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give her a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens his mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up his hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." He takes one careful step back, his hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, his voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With him bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at his tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of his breasts. He lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. He slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I think I'd rather you had a pussy, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," he replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling he would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so. . . " He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Absolutely! Though I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. And I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling they would be into a canopy bed, I think."

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so…" He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure they're safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When they see you, their eyes light up and they rise to their hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

They stand up and walk over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Absolutely! Though I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. And I think I know just where to get it," she replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure she's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When she sees you, her eyes light up and she rises to her hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

She stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give her a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," she replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

She opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up her hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." She takes one careful step back, her hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, her voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of her breasts. She lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. She slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so…" He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give him a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens his mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up his hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." He takes one careful step back, his hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, his voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With him bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at his tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of his breasts. He lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. He slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I think I'd like it to be your choice. I am perfectly happy, either way."

"Absolutely! Of course, for the things you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make them happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," he replies, winking at you. "I think I'm gonna go ahead and keep the dick. I kinda like having it, to be honest."

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling he would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal with furnishings before the actual summoning. They stand up and walk over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I think I'd like it to be your choice. I am perfectly happy, either way."

"Absolutely! Of course, for the things you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make them happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you. "I think I'm gonna go ahead and keep the dick. I kinda like having it, to be honest."

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling they would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure they're safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When they see you, their eyes light up and they rise to their hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

They stand up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With her bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at her tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of her breasts. She lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. She slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I think I'd like it to be your choice. I am perfectly happy, either way."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there are things you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," she replies, winking at you. "I think I'm gonna go ahead and keep the dick. I kinda like having it, to be honest."

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure she's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When she sees you, her eyes light up and she rises to her hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

She stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give her a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," she replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

She opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up her hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." She takes one careful step back, her hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, her voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling he would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give him a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up his hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." He takes one careful step back, his hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, his voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With him bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at his tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of his breasts. He lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. He slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure they're safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When they see you, their eyes light up and they rise to their hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

They stand up and walk over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," she replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

He looks up from the book. "Oh, wait. You mean you've already summoned one?"

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

She opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up her hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." She takes one careful step back, her hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, her voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With her bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at her tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of her breasts. She lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. She slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," he replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling he would be into a canopy bed, I think."

He looks up from the book. "Oh, wait. You mean you've already summoned one?"

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so…" He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give him a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens his mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling they would be into a canopy bed, I think."

He looks up from the book. "Oh, wait. You mean you've already summoned one?"

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so…" He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure they're safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When they see you, their eyes light up and they rise to their hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

They stand up and walk over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Startled, you turn to see him standing on the ward, the carefully-drawn symbols smudged underneath. Steve is looking up in horror, the color gone from his face.

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Absolutely! Though I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. And I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure she's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When she sees you, her eyes light up and she rises to her hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

She stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give her a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," she replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

She opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Startled, you turn to see him standing on the ward, the carefully-drawn symbols smudged underneath. Steve is looking up in horror, the color gone from his face.

Belrye holds up her hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." She takes one careful step back, her hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, her voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With her bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at her tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of her breasts. She lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. She slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Absolutely! Though I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. And I think I know just where to get it," she replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give her a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens his mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Startled, you turn to see him standing on the ward, the carefully-drawn symbols smudged underneath. Steve is looking up in horror, the color gone from his face.

Belrye holds up his hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." He takes one careful step back, his hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, his voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With him bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at his tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of his breasts. He lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. He slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I think I'd rather you had a pussy, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," he replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling he would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so. . . " He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Absolutely! Though I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. And I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling they would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so…" He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure they're safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When they see you, their eyes light up and they rise to their hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

They stand up and walk over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

"I think I'd like it to be your choice. I am perfectly happy, either way."

A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure she's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When she sees you, her eyes light up and she rises to her hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

She stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give her a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a

"I'd like that," she replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

She opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up her hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." She takes one careful step back, her hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, her voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With her bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at her tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of her breasts. She lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. She slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I think I'd like it to be your choice. I am perfectly happy, either way."

"Absolutely! Of course, for the things you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make them happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," she replies, winking at you. "I think I'm gonna go ahead and keep the dick. I kinda like having it, to be honest."

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give him a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens his mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Startled, you turn to see him standing on the ward, the carefully-drawn symbols smudged underneath. Steve is looking up in horror, the color gone from his face.

Belrye holds up his hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." He takes one careful step back, his hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, his voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With him bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at his tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of his breasts. He lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. He slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I think I'd like it to be your choice. I am perfectly happy, either way."

"Absolutely! Of course, for the things you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make them happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," he replies, winking at you. "I think I'm gonna go ahead and keep the dick. I kinda like having it, to be honest."

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling he would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I think I'd like it to be your choice. I am perfectly happy, either way."

"Absolutely! Of course, for the things you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make them happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you. "I think I'm gonna go ahead and keep the dick. I kinda like having it, to be honest."

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling they would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure they're safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When they see you, their eyes light up and they rise to their hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

They stand up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Startled, you turn to see him standing on the ward, the carefully-drawn symbols smudged underneath. Steve is looking up in horror, the color gone from his face.

"I think I'd like it to be your choice. I am perfectly happy, either way."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there are things you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," she replies, winking at you. "I think I'm gonna go ahead and keep the dick. I kinda like having it, to be honest."

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure she's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When she sees you, her eyes light up and she rises to her hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

She stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give her a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," she replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

She opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up her hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." She takes one careful step back, her hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, her voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of her breasts. She lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. She slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give him a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens her mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up his hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." He takes one careful step back, his hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, his voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With him bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at his tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of his breasts. He lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. He slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling they would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Yeah, is that bad? Terra had me summon one before she left."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Oh? I'm a bit surprised, since you liked the idea of me being hung. Maybe you just didn't know that was an option? Either way, absolutely! Though I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. And I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

They stand up and walk over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," she replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling she would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure she's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When she sees you, her eyes light up and she rises to her hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

She stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With her bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at her tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

You decide to strip your clothing off and climb into bed, yourself. It takes you a minute to find the piece of wall that serves as a light switch, but after hitting it the two of you are plunged into pitch blackness.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of her breasts. She lets out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. She slides closer and whispers in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"I like you having a dick, if that's okay with you."

"Absolutely! Of course, if there's something you do want to change, I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. Luckily, I think I know just where to get it," he replies, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling he would be into a canopy bed, I think."

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so…" He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure he's safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When he sees you, his eyes light up and he rises to his hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

He stands up and walks over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give him a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a place to talk, or if you would like to share a dinner together or something. You probably shouldn't be jacking off like that when they get here." With a wink, you add, "Of course, once we have a bed, what do you say we get to know each other a bit better?"

"I'd like that," he replies, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

He opens his mouth to reply, but is interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up his hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." He takes one careful step back, his hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, his voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

"Hey, what can I get for ya?" Behind the counter stands a man who definitely looks like he moves heavy things for a living. Even under the robes, you can see that he is quite muscular. His thick handlebar mustache reminds you of a circus strongman, and you wonder what he might have been before joining the order.

"Well, I need furniture for a summoning room," you reply, "I assume I talk to you about that?"

"Come now, you're not the only one with a lust demon here. So you're definitely gonna want a comfy bed, because you're gonna be spending a lotta time in it. Maybe two sets of blankets, too..." You see him taking notes in a large book. It surprises you how nothing here seems to be done electronically. Maybe it is like the locks on your doors, and there is some sort of magic at work here.

"Now, we've got a few models of beds we can do. Are you looking for a fancy four-poster canopy bed, or something more utilitarian?"

"I kinda get the feeling they would be into a canopy bed, I think."

He looks up from the book. "Oh, wait. You mean you've already summoned one?"

"Well, the rules are that I'm not supposed to go into summoning rooms when a demon is already occupying them. They're supposed to have you deal

with furnishings before the actual summoning. So technically I can't. But then again, it pains me to think of a demon not having a bed to sleep in or a pillow to rest their head on, so..." He makes a show of checking that you are alone, then loudly whispers "I'll make an exception." Going back to normal, he reads through his list. "So a canopy bed, two pillows, two sets of blankets. Are you going to want a second chair for the table that's in there?"

"Yes please. What does all of this cost, anyway?"

"Oh, it's all free for you. We have a budget for equipment and stuff, so it all just gets counted as summoning expenses."

Suddenly, a question pops into your mind. "Where does the money for the budget come from, though? I haven't seen an offering plate or anything."

"They don't tell me that sort of information. But with all the demons they've been summoning, and what kinds they are, I get the feeling we're being paid to do this. Just call it a hunch."

"I've got to admit," you say, "something about all of this strikes me as odd. Anyway, for now I should be getting back. Oh, I'm in summoning section five, room one."

"Got it, thanks. Oh, I'm Steve by the way. Great to meet ya!" He gives you a firm handshake. "I'll need a bit to get this all loaded up on the cart, but I'll be down there in about ten minutes. If you could, ah, make sure they're safe to be around, I'd appreciate it. Lust demons are a whole lot safer to be around than some of the other kinds, but just in case."

When they see you, their eyes light up and they rise to their hooves. "Hello there, summoner! Are we getting a bed?"

"Oh, um, I didn't know if it was okay to use it. I was always taught that if you are summoned, you shouldn't assume you can do things like sit on the furniture or eat the food."

"Well, you can definitely use whatever furniture you like in your room here. Sorry, I would have told you sooner, but I didn't realize you didn't know it was okay."

They stand up and walk over to the chair. "I'm really glad you're the one who summoned me. You seem so kind."

You give them a warm smile. "So, someone will be here in a few minutes with the bed and an extra chair for the table here. I figure that gives us a

"I'd like that," they reply, "I'd like that so, so much."

"You know, I probably should also look at getting some clothes for you. Like you can be naked around me all the time, but I'm sure others might want you to wear clothing of some sort."

They open their mouth to reply, but are interrupted by a chime sound. "Oh, that must be the furniture." You walk over and open the door, seeing Steve with a large cart.

"Hey there, I'm here with your furniture," he says, wheeling the cart through the door. "And where is—oh! Sorry, I, uh, didn't expect you to be naked. Guess I probably should have." He stares at Belrye, before catching himself. "Oh, right. Anyway, here is your extra chair..." he says, taking it off the cart and setting it next to the table. It looks identical to the one that was already there, making a matched set. "And here is the bed. Let me get that put togeth—oh shit!"

Belrye holds up their hands slowly, careful not to make any sudden movements. "It's okay. I'm friendly, and I'm not going to hurt you. Here, let me slowly step back." They take one careful step back, their hooves clicking on the stone.

As the shock starts to pass, Steve asks, "Are you okay? I know you're not gonna hurt me, but I was worried I accidentally hurt you."

"Oh, okay," Belrye replies, their voice calm and still not making sudden movements, "That doesn't hurt me one bit. That was the ward, so really all you did was make it so now I can do a bunch of stuff I don't want to anyway."

"You must have put a lot of those together," you laugh.

"Eh, after the first fifty or sixty you get really fast at it," he laughs back. He turns to Belrye, and each introduces themself to the other. He then starts wheeling his cart to the door. As you let him out, he jokes, "By the way, let me know if you need anything else! Your room has a lovely view, after all."

You close the door behind him, then turn to find Belrye already parting the curtains to peek inside. With them bent over to climb into the bed on hands and knees, you get a great look at their tail and butt. Steve certainly wasn't kidding about the view.

"Oh wow, it's, uh, kinda darker than I expected."

Out of the blackness, you hear Belrye's voice. "Well, if we can't see each other, we're just gonna have to go by feel. I don't think either of us would mind. . . "

You reach out, and your hands gently touch one of their breasts. They let out a soft moan, and you feel a hand brushing slowly down your side. They slide closer and whisper in your ear, "Explore as much as you like. Anywhere you want to touch, anything you want to do, I'm all yours."

"Well, if I'm being honest, I've always been a bit more into pussy. So I think I would like that best, if you don't mind."

"Absolutely! Though I'm gonna need some lust to make that happen. And I think I know just where to get it," they reply, winking at you.

"I suppose that does bring us back to needing a bed or something," you say, wishing you didn't have to break the mood. From the sound of things, you should be able to go to the supply section. You had seen it on your whirlwind tour of the temple and are pretty sure you remember how to get there. After grudgingly getting dressed, you politely excuse yourself and let yourself out.

About halfway there, you suddenly stop in the hallway. Weren't you supposed to not let anyone else in the summoning room besides yourself? You picture Belrye trying to sleep curled up on the cold, stone floor, deciding that can't be how this is supposed to work. There must have been some mistake. A few minutes later, you are standing in the supply room, at the front desk.

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um… I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, silently reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you also can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back to give you a better angle.

Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. Finding her tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair…"

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird…"

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding more requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give her cock an experimental squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um… I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back to give you a better angle.

Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. Finding her tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub her cock. It feels like a strange mix of human and equine, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between making out for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm hug as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her tighten her arms around you in return.

With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would ride your face night after night, making you eat her out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. "Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between feeling yourself buried in this demoness' ass and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply. You probably shouldn't be too surprised that Belrye can carry a conversation during this, but you are finding it much more difficult to do so.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye a hard thrust as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back to give you a better angle.

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are..." she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's ass a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him arch his back in response.

Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give his cock an experimental squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around his and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" He gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sounds are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um… I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him arch his back to give you a better angle.

Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. Finding his tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub his cock. It definitely reminds you more of a horse, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around him and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what he would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" he gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear him softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful, but I'm right here beside you, okay? Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

Still resting against his shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him tighten his arms around you in return.

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would ride your face night after night, making you eat him out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um... Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike her claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. Finding his tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around him and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" he gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm hug as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him tighten his arms around you in return.

If you're being honest, you are into...

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear him softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Still resting against his shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on their breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding their nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give one of their nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring their breasts, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um... Well, their ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind their back, one of your hands finds its way to their ass. They feel a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives their asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of their hands slide down your back as you do. Their claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell they are being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, their hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by their dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down their body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past their flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of their sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" they reply, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of their cock, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. Their length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's cock a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them arch their back in pleasure.

After a moment, you give them a gentle nudge on their shoulder and ask if they want to roll over. With a little giggle, they do, then presses their body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As they press tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around theirs and slide the other underneath their head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." They raise their head for you to move your arm down a bit. As they lay back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub their soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize they are pushing back just a little harder with their butt than they probably needs to. They also seem to have positioned themself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between their cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against their tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as they grind against you. Fully hard, you decide to give them a bit of a surprise. As they push back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, they push back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," they breathe over their shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home their point, they begin working themself down onto your cock.

As they go past the halfway point, you give them the rest with one hard push. You feel them shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. As they rest a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out their more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down their muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping their lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," they say, a mix of bemusement and wonder in their voice, as you feel their hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of their big, floppy ears. You're not sure what their hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to them. Thinking back to their goatlike eyes, they probably see the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of their thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" they give a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, theirs feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of their head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Their hands are exploring your face, as they continue, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down their back, your hand finds their tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of their body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before they stop and let your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Their exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," they say, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to their hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against theirs. As theirs part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel their tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while they might look a lot like a goat, they are something else entirely. You also quickly discover that their tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of their tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as they pull you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around them as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for their part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like they want to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, they softly say, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, they break the kiss and ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around their soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until their arms gently wrap around you. Their soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in their voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for them. In their voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of their claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, they do the same on the other side. You realize that they are tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give them a squeeze.

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of their hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm their body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear them softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" They think for a moment, then continue, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Their tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel their hands reach down and roll you away from them, followed by the sensation of their soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." they continue, their fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what they would do to you. Maybe they would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of their kinks. Or maybe they would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," they snap their fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with their other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Their tone shifts again, to an almost parental one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a parent to take good care of you. Or..." they lower their voice to a growl as they continue, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" they give your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in their hand. They go back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as they let you think. You also feel their lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether they are trying to sway your decision, are just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't they just get done warning you about all of the things they could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt they would be giving you all of these warnings. They've already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on their breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding their nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give one of their nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring their breasts, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of their hands are accounted for, that must be their own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them arch their back to give you a better angle.

Well, their ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind their back, one of your hands finds its way to their ass. They feel a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives their asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of their hands slide down your back as you do. Their claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell they are being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. Finding their tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" they reply, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, their hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair…"

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird…"

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of their hands are accounted for, that must be their own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by their dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down their body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past their flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of their sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub their cock. It feels like a strange mix of human and equine, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give their cock an experimental squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh. . . " they reply, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of their cock, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, they seem to have fully extended from the sheath. Their length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give them a gentle nudge on their shoulder and ask if they want to roll over. With a little giggle, they do, then press their body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As they press tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around them and slide the other underneath their head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." They raise their head for you to move your arm down a bit. As they lay back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub their soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize they are pushing back just a little harder with their butt than they probably need to. They also seem to have positioned themself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between their cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as they grind against you. Fully hard, you decide to give them a bit of a surprise. As they push back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, they push back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," they breathe over their shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home their point, they begin working themself down onto your cock.

As they go past the halfway point, you give them the rest with one hard push. You feel them shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. As they rest a hand on yours, they add, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out their more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down their muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping their lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," they say, a mix of bemusement and wonder in their voice, as you feel their hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of their big, floppy ears. You're not sure what their hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to them. Thinking back to their goatlike eyes, they probably see the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of their thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" they give a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, theirs feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of their head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Their hands are exploring your face, as they continue, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down their back, your hand finds their tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of their body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before they stop and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Their exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," they say, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to their hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against theirs. As theirs part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel their tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while they might look a lot like a goat, they are something else entirely. You also quickly discover that their tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of their tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as they pull you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around them as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for their part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like they want to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, they softly say, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, they break the kiss and ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around their soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until their arms gently wrap around you. Their soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in their voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for them. In their voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of their claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, they do the same on the other side. You realize that they are tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give them a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, summoner?"

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of their hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm their body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear them softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. Still resting against their shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" They think for a moment, then continue, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Their tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel their hands reach down and roll you away from them, followed by the sensation of their soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." they continue, their fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what they would do to you. Maybe they would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of their kinks. Or maybe they would ride your face night after night, making you eat them out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," they snap their fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with their other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Their tone shifts again, to an almost parental one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a parent to take good care of you. Or..." they lower her voice to a growl as they continue, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" they give your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in their hand. They go back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as they let you think. You also feel their lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether they are trying to sway your decision, are just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't they just get done warning you about all of the things they could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt they would be giving you all of these warnings. They've already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on their breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding their nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give one of their nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring their breasts, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of their hands are accounted for, that must be their own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them arch their back to give you a better angle.

Well, their ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind their back, one of your hands finds its way to their ass. They feel a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives their asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of their hands slide down your back as you do. Their claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell they are being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike her claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. Finding their tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" they reply, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, their hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair…"

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by their dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down their body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past their flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" they reply, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, they seem to have fully extended from the sheath. Their length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give them a gentle nudge on their shoulder and ask if they want to roll over. With a little giggle, they do, then press their body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As they press tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around them and slide the other underneath their head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." They raise their head for you to move your arm down a bit. As they lay back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub their soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize they are pushing back just a little harder with their butt than they probably need to. They also seem to have positioned themself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between their cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as they grind against you. Fully hard, you decide to give them a bit of a surprise. As they push back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, they push back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," they breathe over their shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home their point, they begin working themself down onto your cock.

As they go past the halfway point, you give them the rest with one hard push. You feel them shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. As they rest a hand on yours, they add, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. "Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out their more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down their muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping their lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," they say, a mix of bemusement and wonder in their voice, as you feel their hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of their big, floppy ears. You're not sure what their hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to them. Thinking back to their goatlike eyes, they probably see the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of their thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" they give a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, theirs feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of their head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Their hands are exploring your face, as they continue, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down their back, your hand finds their tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of their body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before they stop and let your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Their exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," they say, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to their hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against theirs. As theirs part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel their tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while they might look a lot like a goat, they are something else entirely. You also quickly discover that their tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of their tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as they pull you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around them as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for their part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like they want to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, they softly say, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, they break the kiss and ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between making out for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm hug as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them tighten their arms around you in return.

With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around their soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until their arms gently wrap around you. Their soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in their voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for them. In their voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of their claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, they do the same on the other side. You realize that they are tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give them a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of their hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm their body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear them softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Still resting against their shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" They think for a moment, then continue, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Their tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel their hands reach down and roll you away from them, followed by the sensation of their soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." they continue, their fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what they would do to you. Maybe they would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of their kinks. Or maybe they would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," they snap their fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with their other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Their tone shifts again, to an almost parental one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a parent to take good care of you. Or..." they lower their voice to a growl as they continue, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" they give your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in their hand. They go back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as they let you think. You also feel their lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether they are trying to sway your decision, are just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't they just get done warning you about all of the things they could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt they would be giving you all of these warnings. They've already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird…"

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible."Um…I guess I never really thought about it? Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between feeling yourself buried in this demoness' ass and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply. You probably shouldn't be too surprised that Belrye can carry a conversation during this, but you are finding it much more difficult to do so.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye a hard thrust as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back to give you a better angle.

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's ass a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back in response.

You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub her cock. It feels like a strange mix of human and equine, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give her cock an experimental squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh. . . " she replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would ride your face night after night, making you eat her out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um… I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them

in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back to give you a better angle.

Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. Finding her tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful, but I'm right here beside you, okay? Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her tighten her arms around you in return.

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird…"

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. Finding his tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair…"

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around his and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" he gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm hug as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him tighten his arms around you in return.

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear him softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub his cock. It feels like a strange mix of human and equine, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give his cock an experimental squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved.

We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's cock a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him arch his back in pleasure.

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around him and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what he would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" he gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear him softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would ride your face night after night, making you eat him out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um… I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him arch his back to give you a better angle.

Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike her claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. Finding his tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair…"

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird…"

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give his cock an experimental squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around him and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" he gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on their breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding their nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give one of their nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you keep exploring their breasts, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of their hands are accounted for, that must be their own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them arch their back to give you a better angle.

Well, their ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind their back, one of your hands finds its way to their ass. They feel a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives their asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of their hands slide down your back as you do. Their claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell they are being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too." Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by their dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down their body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past their flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of their sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of their cock, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, they seem to have fully extended from the sheath. Their length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. After a moment, you give them a gentle nudge on their shoulder and ask if they want to roll over. With a little giggle, they do, then presses their body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As they press tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around theirs and slide the other underneath their head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." They raise their head for you to move your arm down a bit. As they lay back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub their soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize they are pushing back just a little harder with their butt than they probably needs to. They also seem to have positioned themself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between their cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against their tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as they grind against you. Fully hard, you decide to give them a bit of a surprise. As they push back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, they push back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," they breathe over their shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home their point, they begin working themself down onto your cock.

As they go past the halfway point, you give them the rest with one hard push. You feel them shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. As they rest a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out their more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down their muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping their lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," they say, a mix of bemusement and wonder in their voice, as you feel their hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of their big, floppy ears. You're not sure what their hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to them. Thinking back to their goatlike eyes, they probably see the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of their thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" they give a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, theirs feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of their head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Their hands are exploring your face, as they continue, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down their back, your hand finds their tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of their body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before they stop and let your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Their exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," they say, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to their hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against theirs. As theirs part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel their tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while they might look a lot like a goat, they are something else entirely. You also quickly discover that their tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of their tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as they pull you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around them as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for their part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like they want to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, they softly say, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, they break the kiss and ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between making out for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm hug as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them tighten their arms around you in return.

With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around their soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until their arms gently wrap around you. Their soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in their voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for them. In their voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of their claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, they do the same on the other side. You realize that they are tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give them a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of their hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm their body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear them softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" They think for a moment, then continue, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Their tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel their hands reach down and roll you away from them, followed by the sensation of their soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." they continue, their fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what they would do to you. Maybe they would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of their kinks. Or maybe they would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," they snap their fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with their other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Their tone shifts again, to an almost parental one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a parent to take good care of you. Or..." they lower their voice to a growl as they continue, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" they give your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in their hand. They go back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as they let you think. You also feel their lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether they are trying to sway your decision, are just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't they just get done warning you about all of the things they could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt they would be giving you all of these warnings. They've already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on their breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding their nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give one of their nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring their breasts, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of their hands are accounted for, that must be their own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um... Well, their ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind their back, one of your hands finds its way to their ass. They feel a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives their asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of their hands slide down your back as you do. Their claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell they are being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, their hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair…"

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going to far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird…"

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by their dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down their body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past their flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of their sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub their cock. It feels like a strange mix of human and equine, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of their cock, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. Their length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give them a gentle nudge on their shoulder and ask if they want to roll over. With a little giggle, they do, then press their body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As they press tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around them and slide the other underneath their head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." They raise their head for you to move your arm down a bit. As they lay back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub their soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize they are pushing back just a little harder with their butt than they probably need to. They also seem to have positioned themself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between their cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as they grind against you. Fully hard, you decide to give them a bit of a surprise. As they push back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, they push back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," they breathe over their shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home their point, they begin working themself down onto your cock.

As they go past the halfway point, you give them the rest with one hard push. You feel them shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. As they rest a hand on yours, they add, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between feeling yourself buried in this demon's ass and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply. You probably shouldn't be too surprised that Belrye can carry a conversation during this, but you are finding it much more difficult to do so.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye a hard thrust as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them arch their back to give you a better angle.

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out their more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down their muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping their lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," they say, a mix of bemusement and wonder in their voice, as you feel their hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of their big, floppy ears. You're not sure what their hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to them. Thinking back to their goatlike eyes, they probably see the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of their thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" they give a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, theirs feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of their head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Their hands are exploring your face, as they continue, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down their back, your hand finds their tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of their body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before they stop and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Their exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," they say, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to their hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against theirs. As theirs part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel their tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while they might look a lot like a goat, they are something else entirely. You also quickly discover that their tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as they pull you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around them as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for their part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like they want to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, they softly say, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, they break the kiss and ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around their soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until their arms gently wrap around you. Their soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in their voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for them. In their voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of their claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, they do the same on the other side. You realize that they are tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give them a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of their hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm their body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear them softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Still resting against their shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" They think for a moment, then continue, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Their tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel their hands reach down and roll you away from them, followed by the sensation of their soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." they continue, their fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what they would do to you. Maybe they would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of their kinks. Or maybe they would ride your face night after night, making you eat them out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," they snap their fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with their other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Their tone shifts again, to an almost parental one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a parent to take good care of you. Or..." they lower her voice to a growl as they continue, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" they give your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in their hand. They go back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as they let you think. You also feel their lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether they are trying to sway your decision, are just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't they just get done warning you about all of the things they could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt they would be giving you all of these warnings. They've already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on their breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding their nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give one of their nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring their breasts, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Well, their ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind their back, one of your hands finds its way to their ass. They feel a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives their asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of their hands slide down your back as you do. Their claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell they are being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

At the same time, their hands give your ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor seems like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of their hands are accounted for, that must be their own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's ass a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them arch their back in response.

Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by their dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down their body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past their flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give their cock an experimental squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" they reply, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, they seem to have fully extended from the sheath. Their length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give them a gentle nudge on their shoulder and ask if they want to roll over. With a little giggle, they do, then press their body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As they press tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around them and slide the other underneath their head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." They raise their head for you to move your arm down a bit. As they lay back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub their soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize they are pushing back just a little harder with their butt than they probably need to. They also seem to have positioned themself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between their cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as they grind against you. Fully hard, you decide to give them a bit of a surprise. As they push back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, they push back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," they breathe over their shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home their point, they begin working themself down onto your cock.

As they go past the halfway point, you give them the rest with one hard push. You feel them shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. As they rest a hand on yours, they add, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out their more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down their muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping their lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," they say, a mix of bemusement and wonder in their voice, as you feel their hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of their big, floppy ears. You're not sure what their hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to them. Thinking back to their goatlike eyes, they probably see the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of their thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" they give a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, theirs feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of their head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Their hands are exploring your face, as they continue, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down their back, your hand finds their tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of their body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before they stop and let your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Their exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," they say, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to their hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against theirs. As theirs part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel their tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while they might look a lot like a goat, they are something else entirely. You also quickly discover that their tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as they pull you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around them as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for their part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like they want to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, they softly say, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, they break the kiss and ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around their soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until their arms gently wrap around you. Their soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in their voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for them. In their voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of their claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, they do the same on the other side. You realize that they are tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give them a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of their hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm their body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" They think for a moment, then continue, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Their tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel their hands reach down and roll you away from them, followed by the sensation of their soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." they continue, their fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what they would do to you. Maybe they would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of their kinks. Or maybe they would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," they snap their fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with their other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Their tone shifts again, to an almost parental one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a parent to take good care of you. Or..." they lower their voice to a growl as they continue, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" they give your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in their hand. They go back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as they let you think. You also feel their lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether they are trying to sway your decision, are just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't they just get done warning you about all of the things they could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt they would be giving you all of these warnings. They've already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too. Kinda surprising, since I seem to recall you saying you weren't into stacked girls," she giggles, "Maybe you just like them small?"

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them

in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back to give you a better angle.

Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. "Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair…"

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give her cock an experimental squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful, but I'm right here beside you, okay? Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her tighten her arms around you in return.

If you're being honest, you are into...

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too. Kinda surprising, since I seem to recall you saying you weren't into stacked girls," she giggles, "Maybe you just like them small?"

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. Finding her tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub her cock. It feels like a strange mix of human and equine, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved.

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You feel a bit overwhelmed, between feeling yourself buried in this demoness' ass and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm hug as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her tighten her arms around you in return.

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would ride your face night after night, making you eat her out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too. Kinda surprising, since I seem to recall you saying you weren't into stacked girls," she giggles, "Maybe you just like them small?"

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're

love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's cock a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back in pleasure.

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You feel a bit overwhelmed, between feeling yourself buried in this demoness' ass and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too. Kinda surprising, since I seem to recall you saying you weren't into stacked guys," he giggles, "Maybe you just like them small?"

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me.* You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him arch his back to give you a better angle.

Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. Finding his tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're

love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give his cock an experimental squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around his and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" he gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear him softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too. Kinda surprising, since I seem to recall you saying you weren't into stacked guys," he giggles, "Maybe you just like them small?"

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them

in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him arch his back to give you a better angle.

Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. Finding his tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub his cock. It feels like a strange mix of human and equine, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around him and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what he would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" he gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against his. As his part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between making out for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm hug as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him tighten his arms around you in return.

With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear him softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would ride your face night after night, making you eat him out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too. Kinda surprising, since I seem to recall you saying you weren't into stacked guys," he giggles, "Maybe you just like them small?"

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around him and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye a hard thrust as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him arch his back to give you a better angle.

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" he gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear him softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Still resting against his shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel his hands reach down and roll you away from him, followed by the sensation of his soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." he continues, his fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what he would do to you. Maybe he would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of his kinks. Or maybe he would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," he snaps his fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with his other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

His tone shifts again, to an almost fatherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a daddy to take good care of you. Or..." he lowers his voice to a growl as he continues, "maybe you'd love to be a Summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" he gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in his hand. He goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as he lets you think. You also feel his lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether he is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't he just get done warning you about all of the things he could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt he would be giving you all of these warnings. He's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on their breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding their nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give one of their nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too. Kinda surprising, since I seem to recall you saying you weren't into stacked girls," they giggle, "Maybe you just like them small?"

As you keep exploring their breasts, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You realize that since both of their hands are accounted for, that must be their own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Well, their ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind their back, one of your hands finds its way to their ass. They feel a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives their asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of their hands slide down your back as you do. Their claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell they are being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

At the same time, their hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair…"

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by their dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down their body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past their flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of their sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give their cock an experimental squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" they reply, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of their cock, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, they seem to have fully extended from the sheath. Their length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's cock a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them arch their back in pleasure.

After a moment, you give them a gentle nudge on their shoulder and ask if they want to roll over. With a little giggle, they do, then press their body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As they press tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around them and slide the other underneath their head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." They raise their head for you to move your arm down a bit. As they lay back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub their soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize they are pushing back just a little harder with their butt than they probably need to. They also seem to have positioned themself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between their cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against their tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as they grind against you. Fully hard, you decide to give them a bit of a surprise. As they push back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, they push back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," they breathe over their shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home their point, they begin working themself down onto your cock.

As they go past the halfway point, you give them the rest with one hard push. You feel them shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. As they rest a hand on yours, they add, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? "Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out their more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down their muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping their lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," they say, a mix of bemusement and wonder in their voice, as you feel their hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of their big, floppy ears. You're not sure what their hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to them. Thinking back to their goatlike eyes, they probably see the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of their thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" they give a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, theirs feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of their head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Their hands are exploring your face, as they continue, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down their back, your hand finds their tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of their body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before they stop and let your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Their exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," they say, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to their hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against theirs. As theirs part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel their tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while they might look a lot like a goat, they are something else entirely. You also quickly discover that their tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of their tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as they pull you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around them as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for their part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like they want to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, they softly say, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, they break the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around their soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until their arms gently wrap around you. Their soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in their voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for them. In their voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of their claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, they do the same on the other side. You realize that they are tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give them a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of their hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm their body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear them softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" They think for a moment, then continue, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Their tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel their hands reach down and roll you away from them, followed by the sensation of their soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." they continue, their fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what they would do to you. Maybe they would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of their kinks. Or maybe they would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," they snap their fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with their other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Their tone shifts again, to an almost parental one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a parent to take good care of you. Or..." they lower their voice to a growl as they continue, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" they give your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in their hand. They go back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as they let you think. You also feel their lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether they are trying to sway your decision, are just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't they just get done warning you about all of the things they could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt they would be giving you all of these warnings. They've already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on their breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding their nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give one of their nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of Belrye's legs. "Seems like you like it, too. Kinda surprising, since I seem to recall you saying you weren't into stacked guys," they giggle, "Maybe you just like them small?"

As you keep exploring their breasts, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of their hands are accounted for, that must be their own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them arch their back to give you a better angle.

Well, their ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind their back, one of your hands finds its way to their ass. They feel a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives their asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of their hands slide down your back as you do. Their claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell they are being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. Finding their tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, Their hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by their dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down their body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past their flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of their sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub their cock. It feels like a strange mix of human and equine, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give their cock an experimental squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh. . . " they reply, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of their cock, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, they seem to have fully extended from the sheath. Their length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give them a gentle nudge on their shoulder and ask if they want to roll over. With a little giggle, they do, then presses their body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As they press tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around them and slide the other underneath their head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." They raise their head for you to move your arm down a bit. As they lay back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub their soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize they are pushing back just a little harder with their butt than they probably need to. They also seem to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between their cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against their tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as they grind against you. Fully hard, you decide to give them a bit of a surprise. As they push back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, they push back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," they breathe over their shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home their point, they begin working themself down onto your cock.

As they go past the halfway point, you give them the rest with one hard push. You feel them shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. As they rest a hand on yours, they add, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out their more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down their muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping their lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what they would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," they say, a mix of bemusement and wonder in their voice, as you feel their hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of their big, floppy ears. You're not sure what their hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to them. Thinking back to their goatlike eyes, they probably see the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of their thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" they give a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, theirs feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of Belrye's head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Their hands are exploring your face, as they continue, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down their back, your hand finds their tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of their body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before they stop and let your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Their exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," they say, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to their hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against theirs. As theirs part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel their tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while they might look a lot like a goat, they are something else entirely. You also quickly discover that their tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of their tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as they pull you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around them as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for their part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like they want to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, they softly say, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, they break the kiss and ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around their soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until their arms gently wrap around you. Their soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in their voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for them. In their voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of their claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, they do the same on the other side. You realize that they are tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give them a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of their hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm their body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear them softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them tighten their arms around you in return.

If you're being honest, you are into...

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" They think for a moment, then continue, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Their tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel their hands reach down and roll you away from them, followed by the sensation of their soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." they continue, their fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what they would do to you. Maybe they would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of their kinks. Or maybe they would ride your face night after night, making you eat them out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," they snap their fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with their other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Their tone shifts again, to an almost parental one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a parent to take good care of you. Or..." they lower their voice to a growl as they continue, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" they give your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in their hand. They go back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as they let you think. You also feel their lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether they are trying to sway your decision, are just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't they just get done warning you about all of the things they could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt they would be giving you all of these warnings. They've already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on their breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding their nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Despite their goatlike features, you remind yourself that they aren't really a goat. You give one of their nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." they reply, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel Belrye wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too. Kinda surprising, since I seem to recall you saying you weren't into stacked partners," they giggle, "Maybe you just like them small?"

As you keep exploring their breasts, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of their hands are accounted for, that must be their own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

Well, their ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind their back, one of your hands finds its way to their ass. They feel a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives their asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of their hands slide down your back as you do. Their claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell they are being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of their other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

Their lips part slightly, and you feel their tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of their teeth not unlike their claws. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of their legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, their hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by their dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down their body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past their flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of their sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of their hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of their fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of Belrye's other hand brush your cheek as their lips meet yours.

You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" they reply, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel them wrap their legs around you. Their hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of Belrye's legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of their cock, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, they seem to have fully extended from the sheath. Their length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give them a gentle nudge on their shoulder and ask if they want to roll over. With a little giggle, they do, then press their body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As they press tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around them and slide the other underneath their head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." They raise their head for you to move your arm down a bit. As they lay back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub their soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize they are pushing back just a little harder with their butt than they probably need to. They also seem to have positioned themself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between their cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against their tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as they grind against you. Fully hard, you decide to give them a bit of a surprise. As they push back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, they push back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," Belrye breathes over their shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home their point, they begin working themself down onto your cock.

As they go past the halfway point, you give them the rest with one hard push. You feel them shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." Belrye replies, needily. As they rest a hand on yours, they add, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, they ask, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. "Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out Belrye's more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down their muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping their lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," they say, a mix of bemusement and wonder in their voice, as you feel their hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of their big, floppy ears. You're not sure what Belrye's hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to them. Thinking back to their goatlike eyes, they probably see the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of their thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" They give a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, Belrye's feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of their head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Their hands are exploring your face, as they continue, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down their back, your hand finds their tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of their body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before they stop and let your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Belrye's exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," they say, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to their hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, Belrye asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against theirs. As Belrye's part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on their muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel Belrye's tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while them might look a lot like a goat, they are something else entirely. You also quickly discover that their tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of their tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as they pull you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around them as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for their part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like they want to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, Belrye softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, they break the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between making out for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm hug as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling them tighten their arms around you in return.

With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around their soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until their arms gently wrap around you. Their soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in their voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for them. In their voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like. . . "

You feel the rounded back of one of their claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, they do the same on the other side. You realize that they are tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give them a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against their shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda. . . " You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of their hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm their body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear them softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful, but I'm right here beside you, okay? Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

Still resting against their shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and they sound genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," they whisper, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" Belrye thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Their tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel their hands reach down and roll you away from them, followed by the sensation of their soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demon control..." they continue, their fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what they would do to you. Maybe they would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of their kinks. Or maybe they would use you as a cock sleeve night after night, making it a little bigger each time. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demon you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," they snap their fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with their other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Belrye's tone shifts again, to an almost parental one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a parent to take good care of you. Or..." they lower their voice to a growl as they continue, "maybe you'd love to be a Summoner who lost control of their demon, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demon like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" they give your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in their hand. They go back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as they let you think. You also feel their lips on your neck, as the demon gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether they are trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't they just get done warning you about all of the things they could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt they would be giving you all of these warnings. They've already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. "Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

"You know, for not liking hung girls, you sure seem to like my dick..." Belrye lets out a giggle, "Maybe you just prefer smaller girls?"

Before you can answer, her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give her cock an experimental squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between feeling yourself buried in this demoness' ass and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply. You probably shouldn't be too surprised that Belrye can carry a conversation during this, but you are finding it much more difficult to do so.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye a hard thrust as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back to give you a better angle.

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would use you as a cock sleeve night after night. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

For a moment, the absurdity of the whole situation hits you. You're contemplating what to do about a real-life lust demon. Not only that, but she is the first person to ever seem like she's really into you. How could you say no to that?

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um… I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Finding her tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, though you still would rather be feeling a wet pussy instead.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's ass a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back in response.

You do have to admit, your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, so that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine.

You hear a small giggle, "For wanting me to have a pussy instead, you don't seem to mind my dick. You must like both, but just be slightly more into a nice, wet hole."

"Y-yeah," you reply, with Belrye letting out a soft moan as you gently rub her cock. It feels like a strange mix of human and equine, with the blunt head sliding out of a sheath. It also feels much warmer than you expected.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give her cock an experimental squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would ride your face night after night, making you eat her out until your tongue is aching. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on her breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding her nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give one of her nipples a slight pull, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring her breasts, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of her hands are accounted for, that must be her own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um… I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye's finger pressed against your lips. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them

in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand rubbing on your back, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's breasts a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her arch her back to give you a better angle.

Well, her ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind her back, one of your hands finds its way to her ass. She feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives her asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of her hands slide down your back as you do. Her claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell she is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. Finding her tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" she replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, her hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair…"

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird…"

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by her dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down her body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past her flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of her sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of her hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of her fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of her other hand brush your cheek as her lips meet yours.

"You know, for not liking hung girls, you sure seem to like my dick..." Belrye lets out a giggle, "Maybe you just prefer smaller girls?"

Her lips part slightly, and you feel her tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of her teeth not unlike her claws. Despite her goatlike features, you remind yourself that she isn't really a goat. You give her cock an experimental squeeze, and the demoness whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel her wrap her legs around you. Her hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of her legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of her cock, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, she seems to have fully extended from the sheath. Her length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um...I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this

After a moment, you give her a gentle nudge on her shoulder and ask if she wants to roll over. With a little giggle, she does, then presses her body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As she presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around her and slide the other underneath her head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." She raises her head for you to move your arm down a bit. As she lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub her soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize she is pushing back just a little harder with her butt than she probably needs to. She also seems to have positioned herself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between her cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against her tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as she grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give her a bit of a surprise. As she pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demoness' asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, she pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," she breathes over her shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home her point, she begins working herself down onto your cock.

As she goes past the halfway point, you give her the rest with one hard push. You feel her shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." she replies, needily. As she rests a hand on yours, she adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out her more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down her muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping her lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," she says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in her voice, as you feel her hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of her big, floppy ears. You're not sure what her hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to her. Thinking back to her goatlike eyes, she probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of her thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh summoner?" she gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, hers feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of her head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." Her hands are exploring your face, as she continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down her back, your hand finds her tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of her body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before she stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

Her exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," she says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to her hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, she asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You figure a nice, tame start might be in order, so you ease yourself forward until your lips bump against hers. As hers part and your tongue slips past, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on her muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what she would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh. Some human styles probably don't translate well to demons, and you are sure the reverse is also true. Maybe you will need to ask about that sometime.

That aside, though, you feel her tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while she might look a lot like a goat, she is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that her tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of her tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as she pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around her as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for her part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like she wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, she softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, she breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around her soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until her arms gently wrap around you. Her soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in her voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for her. In her voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of her claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, she does the same on the other side. You realize that she is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give her a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against her shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of her hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm her body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demoness, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear her softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful, but I'm right here beside you, okay? Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and she sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," she whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demoness, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm squeeze as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling her tighten her arms around you in return.

"Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" She thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." Her tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."

You feel her hands reach down and roll you away from her, followed by the sensation of her soft, furry breasts against your back. "And if you give a demoness control..." she continues, her fingers wrapping around your quickly hardening cock and starting to teasingly stroke it, "who knows what she would do to you. Maybe she would turn you into something weird, twisting and reshaping you to fit all of her kinks. Or maybe she would ride your face night after night. Or maybe..." You start to wonder if this is the same shy, sweet demoness you were just talking to a moment ago. "Maybe I would let you pick your changes, and I would pick my own."

"In fact, Summoner, changing the body is only one thing I can do. If you give your permission, then your mind can slowly be reshaped, too. Maybe I would make you cum every time I snap my fingers," she snaps her fingers beside your head, continuing to stroke your dick with her other hand. "Perhaps I would slowly chip away at your inhibitions, or rewire you to get off from worshipping my hooves."

Her tone shifts again, to an almost motherly one this time. "But the most important thing, Summoner, is where you draw the line. Maybe some of that sounded good to you, or maybe none of it did. It could even be that you have some ideas you would love for me to help you explore. For example, perhaps you've always wanted a mommy to take good care of you. Or..." she lowers her voice to a growl as she continues, "maybe you'd love to be a summoner who lost control of their demoness, and needs to suffer the consequences!"

"I-it's, uh, kinda scary how quickly you can shift between things like that," you nervously say over your shoulder.

"Sorry Summoner, but I just really want to make sure you know what to be ready for when you let a demoness like me be in charge. I can't tell you how much time I've spent with no other outlet than masturbating and thinking about what I'd do if I was ever summoned. What's the saying? Something about opening water gates?"

"Oh, 'opening the floodgates' is what you mean."

"Yeah, that! So, uh, I guess I just want to make sure that you only open the floodgates as far as you're ready for, Summoner. But, uh, from how hard you are…" she gives your cock a squeeze, "I get the feeling you have a pretty good idea how wide you want those floodgates opened already?"

While your head is still spinning a bit from the roller-coaster of the past few minutes, Belrye was right about one thing: you can feel your cock throbbing in her hand. She goes back to stroking, a tiny bit harder, as she lets you think. You also feel her lips on your neck, as the demoness gives it a kiss. You're not sure whether she is trying to sway your decision, is just as aroused and needy as you are, or both.

A voice in the back of your mind tells you that this is a terrible idea. Not only could you find yourself dragged, kicking and screaming, off to Hell, but who knows what that would mean for the order, the city, or even the world? Besides, didn't she just get done warning you about all of the things she could do to you? The right thing to do, here, would be to stay control of the situation.

On the other hand, aren't you here because humanity had no use for you, in the first place? Aren't you alone because no humans seemed interested in dating you? What do you really owe them? Besides, if Belrye had any bad intentions, you doubt she would be giving you all of these warnings. She's already told you more about what to expect than your introduction and partial instruction book had.

For a moment, the absurdity of the whole situation hits you. You're contemplating what to do about a real-life lust demon. Not only that, but she is the first person to ever seem like she's really into you. How could you say no to that?

Making up your mind, you decide…

Well, since your hands are already on his breasts, that seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Under the fur, they feel firm and a bit perky. Finding his nipples, you rub them between your fingers, feeling them harden with every second. You feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give one of his nipples a slight pull, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give both of them a firmer pull, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you keep exploring his breasts, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel something rubbing against your dick. You realize that since both of his hands are accounted for, that must be his own. It feels strange, even besides the sheath, making you a bit curious what it looks like.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. Well, his ass certainly seems like a great place to start. It feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. Reaching down behind his back, one of your hands finds its way to his ass. He feels a bit muscular and athletic, yet the fur gives his asscheek a nice softness. You give it an experimental squeeze, feeling one of his hands slide down your back as you do. His claws are gently raking against your skin, and you can tell he is being careful, but you can definitely feel their sharpness. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

His lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. Finding his tail, you wrap your fingers around it and give a small squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. You give it a slightly firmer squeeze, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too." At the same time, his hands give your own ass a squeeze. "Since you're so into my butt, Summoner, returning the favor feels like it's only fair..."

"You don't mind, then?" You're pretty sure lust demons would be sexually open-minded, but you would rather not assume. After all, maybe in their culture something as tame to humans as holding hands could be seen as taboo.

"Not one bit! I'm into a whole lot of stuff, myself. Probably not a big surprise, huh?" Belrye lets out a chuckle, "I'm a lot more worried about going too far for you—I've heard a lot of humans aren't into much beyond the basics. That's perfectly okay, if you're not! But, uh, I like it weird..."

As you trace a finger down the crack of Belrye's ass, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? Well, since your curiosity has been piqued by his dick, that seems like a great place to start. As your hands slide down his body, it feels a bit strange to be groping someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As your hands glide past his flat belly, a finger bumps against the side of his sheath. Slowly, you start to feel around, working your way up the hard shaft that is sliding out further by the second. It feels strange, almost like a mix between human and equine. There is a blunt head, as opposed to the more rounded, human variety.

Only a few days ago, you weren't even aware Belrye's species existed. You were familiar with demons as a concept, but here in the flesh? And here you are, reaching down and touching the dick of one you just summoned. You briefly wonder how your friends or family would react if they knew, but push the idea aside. That's a problem for future-you. And who knows—some of them might not want to burn you at the stake.

As you explore, you feel one of his hands brush your side, wrapping around and pulling you closer. You feel the claws of his fingertips against your back. They are just resting lightly against you, but their tips feel quite sharp. You feel the palm of his other hand brush your cheek as his lips meet yours.

"You know, for not liking hung guys, you sure seem to like my dick…" Belrye lets out a giggle, "Maybe you just prefer smaller guys?"

Before you can answer, his lips part slightly, and you feel his tongue slide between yours. As the two of you share a French kiss, you are surprised to find the sharpness of his teeth not unlike his claws. Despite his goatlike features, you remind yourself that he isn't really a goat. You give his cock an experimental squeeze, and the demon whimpers softly against you. You pull away from the kiss and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh…" he replies, needily. You give it a long, slow stroke up, then back down, and you feel him wrap his legs around you. His hooves are pressed against the back of your calves, their hardness contrasting with the soft fur of his legs. "Seems like you like it, too."

As you reach the tip and run your fingers over the head of his cock, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." In your hands, he seems to have fully extended from the sheath. His length and girth feel quite impressive, if a touch intimidating.

Your hands pause as you think for a moment. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this

After a moment, you give him a gentle nudge on his shoulder and ask if he wants to roll over. With a little giggle, he does, then presses his body back against yours. It feels a bit strange to lie like this, together with someone covered in fur, but you imagine that will fade with time. As he presses tightly back against you, you wrap one arm around his and slide the other underneath his head. As you feel the curled horn press against it, though, you try to subtly reposition.

Belrye gives a giggle. "Not used to the horns, huh? Here..." He raises his head for you to move your arm down a bit. As he lays back down, you hear a gentle, "Much better..." Without thinking about it, your hand starts to rub his soft, furry belly. After a moment or two, you start to realize he is pushing back just a little harder with his butt than he probably needs to. He also seems to have positioned himself just so that your slowly hardening cock is tucked in between his cheeks, with the tip occasionally touching against his tail.

A bit more time passes, during which Belrye gives up any attempt at subtlety as he grinds against you. Fully hard, you decide to give him a bit of a surprise. As he pushes back again, you quickly shift to angle your cock so that the demon's asshole bumps straight against it. With a deep moan, he pushes back and you feel the tip slide inside.

"Wait," you ask, "Don't we need l—"

"No lube needed," he breathes over his shoulder, "We can take human-sized stuff dry, nice and easy..." As if to drive home his point, he begins working himself down onto your cock.

As he goes past the halfway point, you give him the rest with one hard push. You feel him shudder slightly and tease, "Mmm, you like when I do that?"

"Uh-huh..." he replies, needily. As he rests a hand on yours, he adds, "Seems like you like it, too."

As the two of you start to find a slow, steady rhythm, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? You pause as you think for a moment. "Um... I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by a hard push back from Belrye. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. You've never been with a demon before, so naturally you would like to check out his more inhuman parts. You brush a hand down his muzzle, feeling the short, soft fur. Accidentally bumping his lip, you realize that you hadn't thought about just how big the lips on his muzzled face would actually be. You briefly think about what a demon would look like wearing lipstick on them, managing to stifle a laugh.

"Oh yeah, there are a lot of things that are gonna feel different to you," he says, a mix of bemusement and wonder in his voice, as you feel his hand on your own cheek.

"For both of us," you reply. Working your way along, you brush against one of his big, floppy ears. You're not sure what his hearing is like with them, but you imagine the world probably sounds a lot different to him. Thinking back to his goatlike eyes, he probably sees the world differently, too.

Your curiosity piqued, your hand explores upward until your fingers wrap around one of his thick, curled horns.

"Just like handlebars, eh Summoner?" he gives a small giggle.

"They certainly could be." Unlike a goat's horns, his feel smooth rather than ridged. You trace your finger along them, slowly feeling their graceful spiral before coming to a dull point near the side of his head.

"Y'know, this is gonna sound silly, but it feels so nice having someone think everyday parts of you are new and exotic." His hands are exploring your face, as he continues, "Like your little nose is so cute, and it feels so strange that you don't have fur. I'm sure it makes cleaning up a lot easier."

Reaching down his back, your hand finds his tail. It feels short, with fur that seems to match the rest of his body. It gives a couple of wiggles, before he stops and lets your fingers wrap around it. Sure enough, small and soft.

His exploration mirrors your own, with a hand sliding down your back until you feel a clawed fingertip gently poking and rubbing against your tailbone. "Okay," he says, "this is gonna take some getting used to."

Now it's your turn to let out a laugh. You debate working your way down to his hooves, but you don't really want to change positions.

As your explorations turn into an embrace, he asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? I promise I won't judge or laugh at you, so you can tell me anything at all." You feel a bit overwhelmed, between getting a literal feel for a whole new species and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause as you think for a moment. "Um. . . I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me. Like at this point I would take anyth—"

You are interrupted by Belrye giving your body a hard squeeze. "You're love-starved, Summoner, just as much as I have spent my life lust-starved. We're gonna get through it together. But let's talk about it, if you have never thought about it before. I think I know just where to start, too. I'd like you to think back to stories you've read, movies you've watched, porn you've enjoyed, anything at all. Can you think about that for me?"

"Y-yeah," you reply.

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful. Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

You think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye's hand gently squeeze yours, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. Besides, you can't imagine ever getting another opportunity like this one, and you would kick yourself for the rest of your life if you let it slip by. You give Belrye's warm, furry body a final, firm hug as you finish psyching yourself up, feeling him tighten his arms around you in return.

That aside, though, you feel his tongue slide past your own lips as yours bumps into a couple of large, sharp teeth. You remind yourself that while he might look a lot like a goat, he is something else entirely. You also quickly discover that his tongue is quite a bit longer than yours, as it reaches far enough back to slightly set off your gag reflex.

"Mmm, a bit much for you?" Belrye parts from the kiss to ask, before running the tip of his tongue around your lips, "Don't worry, Summoner—I only bite if you want me to..." You feel a soft, furry arm around your back as he pulls you in for another kiss, yours wrapping around him as well.

For several minutes, the only sound are the wet smacks of making out with each other and the occasional moan or whimper of pleasure as your hands wander and start to explore. You are trying to take things slowly, though, and for his part, Belrye seems to be trying to match. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like he wants to respect your boundaries.

As if reading your mind, he softly says, "Let me know if I'm taking things too fast, okay? I want you to feel comfy and safe with me, Summoner."

"Oh, you're not going too fast," you reply, "I'm just worried I'm going too slow and boring you."

"Nope, you're doing great! Besides, the better you feel, the better your lust tastes. Fear and nervousness make it kind of... sour?" Belrye appears to be struggling to describe the sensation.

Far too soon, he breaks the kiss and asks, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. Anything from a romance between two people, to more of a bondage thing, to the outright bizarre. What do you think you would like most? With how much everything has been to take in, just wrapping your arms around his soft, furry body seems like a great start.

You don't realize how tightly you are squeezing until his arms gently wrap around you. His soft voice whispers in your ear, "It's okay, Summoner. I'm not going anywhere. It sounds like you've needed this for a very, very long time. We'll take things nice and slow."

"S-sorry, it's just a lot to take in," you explain, starting to get a little choked up.

"I know, I know," There is no judgment in his voice, no mirth that you aren't immediately ready for him. In his voice, you hear only tenderness. "I think I know something you'll like…"

You feel the rounded back of one of his claws very slowly trace a large arc from the middle of your back almost to your shoulder, before plunging down to your spine just above your hips. Then, he does the same on the other side. You realize that he is tracing a big heart shape on your back, and give him a squeeze.

"Aww, see? I knew you'd like it. Does my fur feel good, Summoner?"

You bury your face against his shoulder. "It's so soft and warm. Like a big plushie or something. It's kinda…" You're not sure how to finish your thought. You would be happy to spend the whole night just like this, though you are sure Belrye has other things in mind for the evening.

"Kinda weird to have something that feels like a big plushie talking to you?" You feel one of his hands rub up and down against your back—you can't get over how warm his body feels. "You can talk to me, cuddle me, anything that makes you feel good."

For several minutes, you silently lie in eachother's arms. You weren't sure what to expect, your first time with a lust demon, but it feels like Belrye wants to respect your boundaries.

You hear him softly say, "So, Summoner, it sounds like you've maybe never been in a relationship before. But there's a whole wide world of ways to have one. You feel a bit overwhelmed, between being held like this for the first time (with a whole new species, for that matter) and being asked the kinds of questions you had never needed to think about before.

You pause and think for a moment. Nobody had ever asked you before, and when each attempt to get a date ended in failure, it felt like adding requirements would just make things even more impossible. "Um…I guess I never really thought about it? I just want to find someone who's into me.

Like at this point I would take anyth—"

"Okay, this is the part that might be a little painful, but I'm right here beside you, okay? Try to picture them in your head. What kinds of things made you feel a bit extra lonely? For that matter, what types of scenes or stories made you feel a little extra horny?"

Still resting against her shoulder, you think for a moment. A story that caught your interest, a movie that made you feel an empty longing inside, various things scattered throughout your porn collection, a beautiful song whose lyrics you were certain had been written for you... You feel Belrye give you a gentle squeeze, reassuring you to take as long as you need.

A wave of futility washes over you, as the same old intrusive thoughts drift back. What's the point? I'll never have that in my life, anyway. That kind of thing only happens for other people, not me. You try to push those thoughts away, focusing on the task at hand. After all, this is the furthest you have ever gotten with someone, and he sounds genuinely interested in helping you.

"Sorry," he whispers, "I know it's probably hard for you. If you would like, maybe we could start from a different direction?"

You take a deep breath. Well, if you are going to open up about what you are into, you can't really imagine anyone more receptive than a lust demon, especially one who seems so reassuring. "Actually, why don't you take charge?"

"W-wait, me take charge?" Belrye asks, surprised.

"Yeah! I mean, even if neither of us has done this before, I'm really curious what a lust demon would do, y'know?"

"Um... okay, I can do that!" He thinks for a moment, then continues, "Of course, there are a whole lot of different things that could mean, and I don't want to get carried away and go too far, Summoner..." His tone seems to be quickly shifting from nervous to seductive. "After all, you don't know aaannnyyy of the things I'm into yet."
